Result of a Week of Activity in New York Stocks and Bonds.

Brisk Inquiry at the Same Time for Investment-Indianapolis Dealers Doing Fairly Well.

At New York, Saturday, money on call was easy at 11/2 per cent.

Prime mercantile paper 406 per cent. Sterling exchange was easier, with actual business in banker's bills at $4.85@4.8514 for demand, and at $4.82%@4.83 for sixty days; posted rates, $4.84@4.861/2; commercial bills,

Silver certificates, 711/2c bid. Bar silver closed at 70%c per ounce; at London, 3216d. The New York bank statement shows the following changes: Reserve, increase......$7,641,750 Deposits, increase..... 8,941,200

Circulation, decrease..... 279,700 The banks now hold $65,470,476 in excess of the requirements of the 25 per cent rule. Speculation on the New York Stock Exchange Saturday during the two hours of business was tame and without notable feature. At the opening there was an advance of %6% per cent., the latter in Louisville & Nashville, which was strong on a report that the directors were negotiating for the acquisition of another Southern railroad property. A slight pressure to sell in the early dealings changed the tone of the dealings and brought about a reaction of a fraction in the general list and of 114 in Sugar, on which the bears made a sharp attack. This was followed by a recovery of 1863% per cent., the market continuing firm until 11 o'clock, except for Lake Shore, which dropped 11/2 per cent., and Sugar. which receded % per cent. additional. In the early part of the last hour a good purchasing movement was developed, under the influence of which Sugar rose 1%; Chicago Gas, 14; Lake Shore, 1 per cent., and the rest of the active list 1/40% per cent., and the market closed strong at or near the best figures of the day. Compared with the final sales of Friday, the changes are very slight. Some very material changes result from the transactions of the week, the great majority of stocks traded in having depreciated in value.

The railway and miscellaneous bond market was unusually active, and dealings were characterized by a strong tone. A brisk inquiry was developed during the week for the best classes of rallway bonds, and large blocks have been taken out of the street by investors. The issues which recorded the most notable advances in Saturday's market were Michigan Central fours, 6 per cent.; Michigan Central fives, of 1931, 5; Lake Shore division sevens, 5, and Pennsylvania four-and-a-half coupons, 1 per cent. General Electric debentures fives declined 1 and St. Joseph & Grand Island firsts 21/2 per cent. In view of the plethora of money, the bond market is attracting more attention than usual, and the indications are that the coming week will see active dealings in this class of securities. Government bonds were firm. State bonds four months past trade on the wholesale streets in the week ending Nov. 18 was fairly satisfactory, and a steady tone ruled in prices. Potatoes and poultry are a shade lower than one week ago, and sugars 1/4c lower. Hides advanced 4c, and some lines of dry goods carried a firmer tone, but the ups and downs in prices, taken as a whole, were slight. Apples, oranges and like articles, which can be dispensed with, sell slow, but in staple goods the sales are reaching nearly an ordinary volume. The provision market is active and prices easy. The local grain market has been more active the last week than for some time past, but receipts of all cereals are not as heavy as had been looked for. New corn is, not coming on the market in as large quantities as dealers expected, but during the week past there was a fair attendance on 'Change and more interest shown in the bldding. Vaccination "Fact and Fancy." To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: In your "People and Things" items of Thursday appears this bit of fancy:

"People who object to the injection of a little vaccine virus into their veins may read with profit the following extract from Mrs. Crossland's recently published memoirs: 'Could modern opponents of vaccination only behold the countenances, marred almost out of resemblance to the human face divine, which were common everywhere seventy years ago, they would surely hide their own faces in shame. I really think that of the men and women born before 1780 fully half were more or less marked by the ravages of smallpox." Now, what about the other half? If half recovered, even though so pitiably pitted, a good many of the other half must have died of smallpox or escaped having it.

Mrs. Crossland's Memoirs are hardly so easily accessible in this community as is the Encyclopedia Britannica, so many sets of which have so recently been "placed" here, thanks to the "enterprise" of several of your "esteemed" book-selling contemporaries. Those who wish to look at some of the facts of the vaccination fallacy might refer to Volume 24 of this work, where, on page 28, four lines from the end, we read: "The epidemic of 1871-2 was one of the worst in the whole history of European smallpox," this referring especially to England, where everybody is compulsorily vaccingted. A little further on, page 29, is the report of the Eastern Metropolitan Hospital, 6,533, cases, all but 1,477 having been vaccinated; the hospitals of Liverpool, Glasgow and Dublin making even a worse showing than that, while Bavaria, with 30,742 cases, reports 29,429, or 95.7 per cent., vaccinated. In the next paragraph the seeker after fact will read: "The total death rate from smallpox in modern times is almost the same as it was in the eighteenth century," the old rate being stated at 18.8 per cent. and the new 18.5. The Crossland Memoirs are doubtless very entertaining reading, but when they touch the vaccination subject are too full of fancy. Their times are too antiquated to allow the modern incorporation of the particulars regarding the 800 deaths and 6,000 cases of injury caused by vaccination, reported to the royal commission now investigating the subject, whose latest meeting was last May, in London. It is the modern appreciation of facts like this, especially in the absence of proof that vaccination really protects from smallpox, that is causing the great increase in the number of "people who object to the injection of a little vaccine virus into their veins." W. B. CLARKE, M. D. Indianapolis, Nov. 16.

Congressional Recognition. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: In the excerpt from Miss Mary H. Krout's letter, given in yesterday's Journal, I find this: "Among the officers of the Boston was Lieutenant Lucian Young-a man promoted for bravery by act of Congress-one of the few men, if not the only one so distinguished in the United States navy." Lieutenant Young is not "the only one so distinguished in the United States navy." By coincidence the same issue of the paper contained a letter of Admiral David D. Porter (written twenty-three years ago), who received such honors, as well as David G. Farragut, L. M. Goldsborough, Samue! F. Dupont, Charles H. Davis, John A. Dahlgren, Stephen C. Rowan, John Rogers, John L. Worden, and John A. Winslow, all of whom attained to the rank of rear admiral up admiral; also, William B. ing, who received a vote of thanks from Congress, promoted to lieutenantcommander and advanced forty-five numbers on the grade, and many others. In fact, it was rather the rule, instead of the exception, during 1863 and 1864, for naval officers to receive a vote of thanks from Congress for distinguished services rendered the Union. We all remember the brave old tar Louis Richards, on board of the Kearsarge, during the late G. A. R. Encampment at Indianapolis, who were the first medal of honor ever given by Congress. He received it for going ashore and taking down a rebei flag. He was remembered by Congress three or four times for deeds of heroism. I do this in justice to my shipmates, many of whom have been "piped to quarters" T. F. LEECH, for the last time. Crawfordsville, Nov. 16.

WHEAT STILL FALLING

December Future Again Breaks the Record, Going to 593-4c.

Cables Weak, Exports Small and Big Increase in Visible Expected Dragged Cereals Downward.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.-Wheat made yet another low-price record for December, today, breaking to 59%c on weak cables, small export clearances, heavy selling by local traders and the expectation that the world's visible supply will be heavily increased Monday. The market rallied 1/30 from the low figures, to close at a net loss for the day of 1/2c per bushel. Corn and oats were weak and each lost 1/3c from their yesterday's value. Provisions stood up well and closed without much change.

Wheat began the day with a more favorable outlook, opening 4c above yesterday's close. The feeling that there would be, necessarily, a reaction from yesterday's low figures helped the first traders and lighter Northwestern receipts contributed to the firmness. Fluctuations for an hour were confined to a range of 1/4c, but the exports from both coasts showed another decrease and the decline began. Weak cables also appeared as a bear factor and Harry Lester, with other operators, sold heavily. With all this against it, the price went down until December had broken the record, and rallied but 1/4c at the close. December opened at 60%c, sold off %c, ralfied 1/4c, lost 1/4c, sold off 1/4c and railied to close at 60c. Corn opened at yesterday's figures and ruled firm for a time. Through a local trader some one in St. Louis bought some short corn and the price advanced slightly. With receipts larger than the estimates, the advance was more than lost, but on small estimates for Monday there was a slight reaction. Later Wheeler appeared as a heavy seller and this, with the weakness in wheat, sent the price down to 1/2c worse than it had opened. May opened at 40 /2c, elimbed 1/sc, lost 1/4c, rallied 1/sc, lost 1/5c and rallied 4c to close at 39%c.

Oats were fairly active, but lower. The heaviness of yesterday's market, together with sympathy with the weak feeling in wheat and corn, were the principal causes of the decline. May opened %c/higher, at 34c, lost %c, sold off %c, rallied %c, to close at 30%c. Provisions were firmer on a better disposition to buy. Opening higher, they declined on ecrn's slump, to close at about last night's figures. As compared with last light, January pork is 21/2c lower, January lard is .021/2c higher and January ribs .071/2c Freights were dull. There were a few arge loads and a number of small ones ffered for which room was scarce. Large ads paid 1%c for corn to Buffalo and small ags about 2c. Estimated receipts Monday ire: Wheat, 170 cars; corn, 450 cars, oats, 165 cars; hogs, 30,000 head. Leading futures ranged as follows:

A Change in the Method of Travel, but Little in the Holy City Itself.

Geo. C. Hurlbut, in Frank Leslie's Monthly. The entrance to the city by the gate of Jaffa is less striking than the view that met the eyes of Lamartine. The railroad has taken away the opportunity of a halt at the commanding spots, and the traveler runs into the station among crowds that resemble, except for the Oriental costumes and faces, the familiar types of those who live on the traveling public at the European railway stations.

Leaving the train, the tourist comes at once upon the money changers, lineal descendants of those who made the house of prayer a den of thieves. He finds himself among Europeans and Americans dressed in the ungraceful garb of the civilized world; by the side of Russian popes, followed by the long-haired, high-booted mujiks, and turbaned Turks and Greeks with patents, $3.4063.60; city mill clears, $3.60@ | treir long, black mustaches; Cypriotes, men and women, with their wide trousers; highcapped Persians, Armenians, Ethiopiansall tribes and languages of man, for Jerusalem is the Holy City to the peoples of the East and of the West. When the sun sets and the voice of the muezzin is heard calling the faithful to prayer the bazaars are closed, and the animation of the day comes to an end. The pligrims and the curious travelers return from their sight-seeing; the former to the convents in which they receive hospitality, the latter to the two hotels. No one wanders about Jerusalem by night, for the city has no amusements to offer like those to be found at Damascus and Beirut and Cairo. Not a sound disturbs the silence of the narrow streets. This is the moment to revisit, with a guide bearing a lantern, the Jaffa Gate, so full of life and movement but a few hours ago. It is like a scene at the theater. On the left is Mount Zion, with its citadel of the old type, utterly unlike the aspect of the modern fortress, which suggests the dungeon, while this one, bristling with towers and inclosed by battlemented walls, without a sign of cannon, looms up in the clear night stern and calm. To the right of the irregular line of valleys are hills inclosing all as in a basin. The road to Bethlehem winds at the base of the fortification and descends, then turns with a graceful curve, and is lost as it passes over a hill that rises against the sky. The landscape is entrancing, and the eyes cannot weary of it. It will remain in the memory as a vision of this Oriental night. blue with a silvery radiance diffused through it by the splendor of the large, white stars, a subtle, translucent azure that passes through the eyes and floods with its soft beauty the thoughts and the emotions that fill the mind and the heart with an undefinable charm at such an hour, at the gate of the city consecrated forever by the presence of the Son of Man. It is like a dream; and the dream broods over the road that leads to Bethlehem: "The wise men of the East came to Jerusalem and said Where is he who is born King of the Jews? For we have seen His star in the east and have come to worship Him.' Then Herod, having secretly called the wise men, inquired of them diagently at what time the star appeared to them." It was immediately behind the citadel that the palace of Herod stood. It was overthrown and destroyed when the city was taken by Titus; but the citadel survived the ruin. It is composed of a series of ramparts uniting in the Towers Hippi-cos, Phasahel and Marlamne, and the Tower of David. The first three have been reconstructed, but the Tower of David is still what it was 3,000 years ago, and its enormous foundation stones were laid long before the time of the great King who began the history which culminated in the sacrifice on Calvary. In the presence of these associations change and progress and material civilization are as empty words.

Stop Hungarian Immigration. Blue and Gray for November.

The problem of restricting immigration must shortly receive more attention from out national legislators than they have yet devoted to it.
